Taxonomy

Kingdom	Phylum	Class	Order	Family
Animalia	Chordata	Reptilia	Squamata	Lacertidae

Taxon Name: Podarcis erhardii (Bedriaga, 1882)

Common Name(s):

- English: Erhard's Wall Lizard

Assessment Information

Red List Category & Criteria: Least Concern ver 3.1

Year Published: 2009

Date Assessed: December 14, 2008

Justification:

Listed as Least Concern in view of its wide distribution, presumed large population, and because it is unlikely to be declining fast enough to qualify for listing in a more threatened category.

Previously Published Red List Assessments

2006 – Least Concern (LC)

Geographic Range

Range Description:

This species is endemic to the Balkans, and ranges from southern Bulgaria, extreme southern Serbia, Macedonia, Albania, and much of mainland Greece (excluding most of the Peloponnese). It is also present on many of the Aegean Islands (including the Cyclades, Sporades and Astypalaia in the Dodecanese). It occurs from sea level up to 2,000m asl. In many places it is known from isolated localities, rather than a continuous range.

Country Occurrence:

Native: Albania; Bulgaria; Greece; Macedonia, the former Yugoslav Republic of; Serbia (Serbia)

Population

It can be common in suitable habitat.

Current Population Trend: Stable

Habitat and Ecology (see Appendix for additional information)

It is found in rocky areas of Mediterranean type scrubland. Island populations can occur in more open areas such as sand dune systems. The females lay one to five eggs in a clutch.

Systems: Terrestrial

Threats (see Appendix for additional information)

There have been some localized declines of populations caused by habitat loss for tourism developments, but there are no threats to the species overall at present.

Conservation Actions (see Appendix for additional information)

This species is listed on Annex II of the Bern Convention and is protected by national legislation over a number of its range countries, but this legislation requires better enforcement. Its range includes several protected areas.
